Charles Scott Hurt.

A street car coming in South Broadway from the Southern depot got beyond control of the motorman in coming down the hill, at Lexington last Thursday, and, dashing down the incline, struck with a terrific crash, the C. & O. passenger train from Louisville, which was crossing Broadway at Water street. The baggage car of the passenger train was knocked over on its side, the street car was smashed like an egg shell, the motorman, George Wells, killed, and a score of its passengers injured. Charles Scott, General Passenger Agent of the L. & E. railroad, was caught inside the car, and suffered four broken ribs, as well as several cuts about the face and hands. His legs were also cut with glass.

Some Magazine Ads.

A man with a mania for answering advertisements has had some interesting experiences. He learned that by sending $1 to a Yankee he could get a cure for drunkard, and he did. It was to "take the pledge and keep it." Then he sent 50 cents to find out how to raise turkeys successfully. He found out: "Just take hold of the top and pull."

Being young, he wished to marry and sent thirty-four 1-cent stamps to a Chicago firm for information as to how to make an impression. When the answer came it read: "Sit down on a pan of dough."

Next advertisement he answered read: "How to double your money in six months." He was told to convert his money into bills, fold them and thus double his money. Next he sent for "twelve useful household articles" and got a package of needles.

He was slow to learn, so he sent $1 to find out "how to get rich." Work hard and never spend a cent," was the reply. That stopped him.

But his brother wrote to find out how to write without a pen and ink. He was told to use a lead pencil.

He paid $1 to learn how to live without work, and was told on a postal card: "Fish for easy marks as we do."

THE BEAUTY CONTEST

The Beauty Contest conducted by the Courier-Journal during the past three months has been concluded and the pictures of the successful ones will be printed in the Sunday Courier-Journal May 26. Several thousand photographs were submitted in this contest. The three most beautiful have been selected by a committee of well known people. These three will be entered in a National Contest, to find the most beautiful woman in the United States. Everybody will want to see the pictures of the most beautiful woman in Kentucky. If you do not get the Sunday Courier-Journal by mail or through an agent, send 5 cents for a copy of this issue of May 26 at once to the Courier-Journal Co., Louisville, Ky., and see the faces of the three most beautiful women in the State.

A Novel Plan.

W. A. McDowell, General Manager of the Lexington & Eastern Railroad after repeated efforts to rid the Campton Junction tunnel of an excessive amount of dirt, which has been sliding over the mouth since January, which necessitated an immense amount of work by contractors, has hit upon the novel plan of washing away with water the sliding dirt and mud. He has rigged up a steam pump and the power is supplied by using an old locomotive boiler, and running the water with a pressure of 125 pounds through seven hundred feet of iron pipe. He is tearing down the side of the hill and relieving the strain on his tunnel with great success. Mr. McDowell's plan in this undertaking is noteworthy from the fact that it is the first successful effort on record to put water to such a use east of the Mississippi river.

"Few Clothes" sold to Robert Marcus last week a mule for $200. He also bought a mare of Sam Wilson, of LeRose, for $135.

Bige Sizemore died at his home on Rock House last Friday a week ago.

Ed Eversole, of Owsley county, has returned home after a visit to friends here.

Mrs. Ann Lewis and Fannie Critch were guests of Dora Morgan last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Morgan visited friends and relatives in Hyden last week.

Miss Amanda Eversole, of Cow Creek, has located here and is engaged in dressmaking.

Tom Morgan left a few days ago for Mexico to visit Mrs. Mattie Bennett. He will probably make his home there.

Henry Howard left here in a boat for Oregon, where he will make his future home. He stopped enroute and took dinner with his sister, Mrs. Price Terry.

Siss Muncy had her house and the entire contents destroyed by fire a few nights ago. Mrs. Muncy and her four children had a narrow escape from being burnt to death.

Joseph White was mortally wounded and Lloyd Cornett fatally injured in a fight on Poorfork creek, in Harlan county. White is not expected to live and Cornett is believed to have a fractured skull. Cornett was assailed by a crowd of drunken men while on his way home from the post-office and struck on the head with a rock. Although dazed by the blow, Cornett secured a shotgun and went in pursuit of the crowd. He came upon a number of men and fired three times in the crowd, and each shot took effect in the body of White. After the shooting it turned out that Cornett had shot the wrong man, and that the party of men he fired into were not the men who had assailed him. Bad whisky is said to be the cause of the trouble. A subscriber wishing to show his appreciation of a newspaper, said: "The two classes of men which the world could least afford to do without are the preacher and the newspaper men, for the preacher tells us the truth and the newspaper tells us everything else."

The use of the manure spreader means a maximum of fertilizer value at a minimum of manual labor.

Illinois is at the head of the list with 37,000 rural delivery postal routes, Ohio, Iowa, Indiana and Pennsylvania following not far behind in the order named.

Dairymen in a portion of Denmark report that by means of testing and selecting 50,000 cows made an increase of thirty-six pounds of butter fat per cow in one year.

Feeding tests lately made by an eastern feeder show the production of milk on a ration of cowpea hay at a cost of $3.38 per hundredweight, while with a grain ration it was 69.5 cents.

It is a more satisfactory as well as a more profitable proposition to go through a field of corn and pull out the overstand than it is to try to fill up the hills where stalks are missing.

It is quite likely to be the fellow who starves and robs his tilled fields of their fertility who is also in the habit of turning his cattle on to pasture about three weeks before he ought to.

Odd places and corners in the garden may just as well be made to grow tomato vines or hills of beans as a mess of unsightly weeds. It is quite safe to assume that if something useful is not grown on such places something harmful will. It is a law of plant as well as human life.

While insecticides will do a good deal to protect the melons, squashes and cucumbers from the striped bug, the safest way is to construct boxes a foot square of six inch stuff and tuck mosquito netting over the top. This will effectively keep the trouble from coming into the one best place.

A series of experiments conducted with some of the alkali soils in the western states seems to show that they will grow good crops of sugar beets where they will not produce grasses or legumes. If this proves to be generally true, it will have been an agricultural fact worth finding out.

The blithesome widow of thirty who marries the forsy widow of sixty in the expectation that she is going to fall heir to a good share of his property, but after marrying him finds that his property has all been transferred to a third party, is not entitled to and will not receive very much sympathy.

Some one has recommended sowing a few flaxseeds in every hill of potatoes, claiming that this will prevent ravages by the Colorado potato beetle. Any of our readers who are of an experimenting turn of mind can try the plan and report their success. On the same principle the presence of a tomato vine in a hill of cucumbers is said to ward off the striped squash bug.

Killing of weeds is but one of the two chief purposes of tilling growing crops. The other is the stirring and loosening of the soil so as to make possible a free circulation of air through it and to prevent a too rapid evaporation of the moisture which it contains. Although a field of corn or other crop may be perfectly clean, one of the most important reasons for cultivation still exists.

What a godsend it would be in view of the scarcity of agricultural laborers in almost all sections of the country in many of our large cities, who are underfed and are suffering for lack of sunshine and fresh air, could be induced to go into the country and in part supply this demand for labor! Could such a situation be brought about everybody concerned would be benefited.

A tree planting custom is in vogue in the state of Massachusetts that might be followed with profit by many of her sister commonwealths. For a number of years past the state highway commission has made a practice of setting out along the highways of the state between 3,000 and 4,000 trees, their thought being that the shade resulting not only tends to save the roads, but furnishes comfort for travelers as well.

It seems to be the universal testimony from localities in the north part of the corn belt that the seed corn saved last fall is not up to the usual standard. In view of this situation the only safe way is to make a careful test of every ear that is to be used for seed. The slipshod indifference that is quite likely to constitute the attitude of so many in this most vital question and that will cause them to be content with the good old way of their grandfathers will in all probability reduce the yield of corn on individual farms from ten to thirty bushels to the acre and the total yield the country over by hundreds of millions of bushels.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For Overblouse or Jumper Designed by May Manton—No. 5616.

Every variation of the overblouse is worn by well dressed women, and here is one that can be treated in such a variety of ways that it becomes adapted to many occasions and a great many materials. It is made of crepe de chine, with trimming of velvet and yoke of lace, and is all in one, but the yoke can be made entirely separate, so that the waist can be worn over several sorts, if liked, or the waist can be made sleeveless and worn over any gumpie or lingerie blouse, or the lining can be used as a gumpie and faced to form the yoke, while the sleeves are sewed therein and the waist is finished separately. The prettily scalloped outline is a novel feature, and the straps over the shoulders are very generally becoming, while the waist is appropriate for almost every dressy material.

The waist is made with a lining that consists of fronts and backs. If this lining is desired, fitted darts are taken up in the fronts, but if it is to be used in the gumpie style these are omitted. When the waist is made all in one, the lining is faced to form the yoke and the blouse is arranged over it. When a separate yoke is desired, the lining is cut off for a portion of its length and is adjusted under the waist, which can be either unlined or made over a foundation, as liked. In any case the blouse proper consists of the front and the backs, with the moderately full sleeves that are finished with wide bands.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 3 1/2 yards 21, 3 yards 27 or 1 1/2 yards 44 inches wide, with 1 1/2 yards of velvet ribbon and three-quarters of a yard of all over lace to make as illustrated.

Sizes for a 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inch bust.

5616 Over Blouse or Jumper,
32 to 42 bust.

F. P. Clay, Jr., Paris, Ky., says: "I can recommend Bourbon Poultry Cure to any one who has unhealthy fowls, as I have had great success with it on my own flock. On several occasions I have cured chickens that were too sick to stand up or eat. So far I have lost but one old fowl this year. I frequently put a little of the medicine in the drinking water, as I think it keeps the fowls in a healthy condition." Sold and guaranteed by Day Bros.
